Emerson expressed his ideas in the essay “Self-Reliance.” Fuller wrote Women in the Nineteenth Century, a book about women’s basic rights. In his book Life in the Woods, Thoreau summarized many of his transcendentalist beliefs.

Some transcendentalists created communities apart from society. In these utopian communities, people hoped to form a perfect society. Some, such as the Shaker communities, were based on religious beliefs. Other groups pursued utopian lifestyles for abstract and transcendental reasons.

Why might transcendentalists seek to create utopian communities?

AMERICAN ROMANTICISM

In the early and mid-1800s, many artists were inspired by simple life and nature’s beauty. Some joined the Romantic movement that began in Europe with British poets such as Blake, Byron, Keats, and Shelley. For the Romantics, each person brought a unique point of view to the world. These writers used their emotions to guide their words.

At this time American Romantic writers began to develop an American style. Female writers such as Ann Sophia Stephens wrote popular historical fiction. Another historical novel, The Scarlet Letter by Nathaniel Hawthorne, described Puritan life in America. Herman Melville wrote Moby Dick, considered to be one of America’s finest novels. Edgar Allan Poe also gained fame for his short stories and poetry.

Underline all the writers’ names that appear in this section. Put an ‘X’ by the names you have heard before.

Emily Dickinson, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, and John Greenleaf Whittier are just three poets of this time whose works have long outlived them. The same is true of Walt Whitman, who used his poem Leaves of Grass to praise American individualism and democracy.

Circle the titles of famous novels written by American Romantics.

CHALLENGE ACTIVITY

Critical Thinking: Make Inferences In this section certain writers’ names appear in bold print while other names do not. Explain what you think the difference is and why it is important.
